To Have Been Mar- tyr Four Years

Now She Wants a Divorce From "That Man."

PROFESSED TO LOVE HUSBAND FOR APPEARANCE'S SAKE.

SHE HAS BOUGHT A FINE PIANO

And Her Auto is En Route to South Dakota Where She is Living in Style.

New York, Nov. 18.—A telegram to the Advocate yesterday afternoon announced that Mrs. Roland B. Molineux had gone to South Dakota to remain the required six months before securing a divorce from Molineux who was recently acquitted after four years' imprisonment and two trials for the murder of Mrs. Kate Adams. The following dispatch from Sioux Falls, Ia., gives some interesting details of the young woman's arrival in South Dakota:

Mrs. Molineux entered the Hotel Cataract at Sioux Falls but did not register, simply asking the clerk to take her name which she gave as "Mrs. L. C. Johnson." As she did so she unbuttoned her cloak, showing a grayish black silk traveling gown and fingers laden heavily with diamonds. The clerk, indifferent at first, started at the flash of the jewels and bowed politely.

"And may I have your best room?" she asked quietly.

"Yes, mam," replied the clerk. "Mrs. Johnson" stayed quietly in her room. She arose late and ate in a private dining room. She spoke to the waitresses with an air that impressed them with her authority.

During the morning a Western Union messenger boy trotted into the hotel with a telegram for Mrs. Roland B. Molineux.

"Nobody here with that name," mused the clerk and stuck the message into a letter holder. An hour later Mrs. Johnson walked into the office and asked to see the telegrams. The clerk handed over a bunch of messages. The woman ran through the yellow envelopes, quickly picked out the message to Mrs. Molineux and handed the others back. She asked the clerk the best music house in the city and walked out and down the street. She picked out the most expensive piano in the house, opened her purse, pulled out crisp bills and paid cash.

"Bring it to Mrs. Johnson's room at the Cataract," she announced and walked out.

At 2:30 o'clock Mrs. Molineux again left the hotel and went to the legal offices of Kittredge, Warnan & Scott. Mr. Kittredge is United States Senator from South Dakota. Mr. Scott is State's Attorney at Sioux Falls. Mrs. Molineux remained in the office 15 minutes. After her departure a member of the firm gave out the statement that the firm had been engaged to procure a divorce for her.

Mrs. Molineux was asked to make a statement. She said: "Yes, my name is Mrs. Molineux, of New York. I came here to get a divorce from that man and I want the whole world to know it."

Later, a friend called at Mrs. Molineux's room. "Come," she answered in a low voice. The visitor saw when he entered a tall woman, dressed in a lounging robe. She turned rich black eyes to him in question. Her black hair hung down over her brow in entrancing tresses. "Who am I," she repeated with a little laugh. "Oh, I am Mrs. R. B. Molineux of New York. No, I am not Mrs. Johnson, and I gave that name because I did not want to be disturbed. I have come here to remain six months. That's the time required for a divorce, isn't it? Now, that's all."

"Well, would you say something of your differences with your husband for the newspapers?" was asked. She shrugged her shoulders deprecatingly. "Oh, I've been a martyr,

FORCED PRISONER TO EAT PART OF HIS OWN FLESH

Washington, Nov. 18.—The Supreme Court of the Philippines has liberated Jose and Isidor DeGuseman of the Province of Isabella, under the amnesty act. The men were sentenced to imprisonment for life for forcing a Spaniard, Lieut. Piera, of Guardia Civil, to eat part of his own flesh. They were ordered also to pay to the family of the victim $1000. It appears that the Lieutenant had incurred the displeasure of the two men. His hands were tied behind his back and he was fastened to a stake for three days. At the end of that time, having been without food, a piece of flesh was cut from his leg. The meat was cooked before the victim's eyes and he was then forced to eat it. Finally he was killed.

that's all," and she arose and walked fiercely across the room to a Davenport. "A martyr, oh, yes, and I've been under such a fearful strain, I want quiet. I want rest. For four years I have been waiting to see what they would do to that man. Now it's all over and I will rest."

"It seems to me you showed a good deal of interest in your husband, Mrs. Molineux," was suggested.

"All for appearance's sake. I simply lived while the world thought I was loving him. I've been a martyr for four years, that's it."

"But weren't you reconciled to your husband after the trial? Didn't you meet him at General Molineux's house?"

"No, I did not. That was only part of the plot." She spoke in clear-cut, snappy accents. "I went to the home of General Molineux," she went on more slowly, "after I had the promise of General Molineux that I should not see that man, and I didn't. On no other understanding would I leave the Murray Hill hotel. I wouldn't have gone one step. I agreed to keep up the appearance for two days after the trial that it might be said we had made up. I did so. I stayed at the General Molineux home until the 48 hours was up and I did not see that man either. As soon as that time was up I left for South Dakota and here I am."

"I am sure you will be admired for having postponed this divorce till after the trial," was suggested again.

"It was all for General Molineux," answered the woman, starting up again.

"I like General Molineux, and promised him I would wait till after the trial. I respect him and his struggle to save his son. For no other person in the family would I have done what I did. But now I am free," she concluded.

Mrs. Molineux did not refer at any time to the differences she had with her mother-in-law a year ago, when Mrs. Molineux rebuked her for appearing in public. But her manifest determination to enjoy herself in Sioux Falls indicates what she means by saying that she has been a martyr that she has been compelled to sacrifice social enjoyment in the interest of "that man." In all her remarks she referred to her husband only as "that man."

Mrs. Molineux has stated that she has ordered her automobile shipped from New York and that it will soon arrive.

"I want to take some spins about the country," she said in a cheerful mood to the hotel proprietor. "Haven't you some Indian tribes near here? Well, I want to go out and see them all, and go through the bad lands I've heard so much about. And I want to spend some of my time in the Black Hills, too."

The visitor asked for and was granted a membership in the Sioux Falls Golf Club. She confines herself closely to her room and is not seen by any one except the proprietor of the hotel when she is not on the street. It is understood Senator A. B. Kittredge, who is known in South Dakota as "The Sphinx," who was never known to give out an interview upon any subject, advised Mrs. Molineux it would be unwise to make public any of the grounds upon which she will ask for a divorce, and between his advice and her natural reticence it is not expected she will make a further statement.

She declines to say what she will do when the divorce has been granted her.

New York, Nov. 18.—When General Molineux, father of Roland, was asked if it was true that his daughter-in-law was in Sioux Falls to apply for a divorce, he said:

"I shall have to refer you to my lawyers. I cannot say anything about the matter."

"Is it true that Mrs. Molineux has gone to South Dakota?"

"I don't know whether she is there

Settles With Clerk Mil- ler's Bondsmen at Sandusky.

Sandusky, O., Nov. 18.—The city council last night settled the suits against ex-City Clerk Miller's bondsmen for $10,500. The city sued the bondsmen for $68,000 of which amount Miller was short. The court pruned down the bondsmen's liability to $32,000, and Miller paid back $20,000. He is now serving a six year sentence in the penitentiary.

THE A. F. OF L.

New Orleans, Nov. 18.—In the American Federation of Labor convention today the investigation of President Gompers did not come up on roll call. The umpire of the investigation committee has not yet been selected.

WALKED

To the Death Chair With- out a Single Tremor.

Auburn, N. Y., Nov. 18.—With eyes fixed immovably on a crucifix which he carried in his hand, John Truck, the Corland county murderer, walked to the chair of death in Auburn prison at 6:20 o'clock this morning, and accepted his fate resignedly. Truck died without uttering a word or without a tremor. Truck murdered Frank Miller, a farmer acquaintance in March, 1899, for his money.

Thief's Neat Haul.

Cleveland, Nov. 18.—A. J. Mueller, a jewelry salesman who has been traveling in Alaska for the Suede Gulf Manufacturing company, stopped off a train here last night. Some one slit his pocket and extracted therefrom $750 in cash and 12 1/2 ounces of gold dust. The police are looking for the thief.

CARNEGIES ILL

London, Nov. 18.—Owing to Andrew Carnegie's illness he and Mrs. Carnegie will not sail for the United States tomorrow. The whole family were affected by something they ate. Mrs. Carnegie and her daughter have recovered. The Carnegies expect to sail next week.

FIRE THE TOWN JUST FOR SPITE.

Vienna, Nov. 18.—Tyrolez, the village of matches, was almost totally destroyed by fire today. Seven hundred persons are left destitute and 500 cattle perished in the flames. The fire, it is reported, was started by a woman who owns most of the village. She wished to punish the peasants for disrespect toward her.

Volcano's Active.

Rome, Nov. 18.—Explosions in the famous volcano Stromboli have become so violent that it is feared they will arouse other volcanoes which are considered extinct. Debris of the Lippari Isles on the northernmost of which Stromboli is situated have become most uneasy. Volcanoes are also showing signs of unrest.

Vote is Announced By Secretary

The Official Figures are 811,467.

ANNOUNCEMENT WAS MADE THIS AFTERNOON.

HOW NEAR DID YOU COME?

Thousands of People All Over the Country Interested in the Figures Announced Today.

Columbus, Ohio, Nov. 18.—(Bulletin)—The total vote of all parties in Ohio for Secretary of State was announced this afternoon by Secretary of State Laylin to be 811,467. These are the official figures.

Telephone messages and telegrams have poured into Columbus from all parts of the state inquiring for the official figures. Widespread interest has been taken in the vote owing to the guessing contests that were conducted by certain newspapers.

MAYORS

OF OHIO TOWNS NOTIFIED OF THE NEW CODE.

Proclamation by Secretary Laylin Shows Many Imperfections of the Last Census.

Columbus, O., Nov. 18.—The proclamation issued by Secretary of State Laylin to the Mayors of the municipalities of Ohio in order to start the machinery of the new code is a simple copy of the Federal census of 1900, coupled with a brief reference to the section of the law requiring him to issue the same. There are no instructions to the Mayors regarding the notification of the City councils, the reference to the law being deemed sufficient.

The imperfections of the Federal census are shown up glaringly by the proclamation, no less than 55 municipalities being marked as having no return. Just what standing these uncensused towns have is undecided. The list shows that there are 12 villages in the state that are above the 4,000 mark, viz.: Ashland, Darlington, Bellevue, Delphos, Hillsboro, Jackson, Kent, Oberlin, Pomeroy, Ravenna, Shelby and Uhrichsville. Six of these have over 4,500 population.

The smallest city in the state will be Painesville, the seat of Lake county, with 5,021, or 24 more than the prescribed 5,000. The smallest village recorded is Jacksonboro, in Butler county, which has 77 inhabitants. Three counties in the state will have three cities, Cuyahoga having Cleveland, Newburg and Glenville; Stark having Canton, Massillon and Alliance; and Columbiana having East Liverpool, Salem and Wellsboro. Ten counties will have two cities, Hamilton, with Cincinnati and Norwood; Miami, with Piqua and Troy; Butler, with Hamilton and Middletown; Tuscarawas, with Canal Dover and New Philadelphia; Ashabula, with Conneaut and Ashabula City; Seneca, with Tiffin and Postoria; Lorain, with Ellettsburg and Lorain City; Crawford, with Bucyrus and Gallatin; Belmont, with Bellair and Martin's Ferry; and Trumbull, with Warren and Niles.

There are ten villages located in two counties: Polkville, in Huron and Sandusky; Delphos, in Van Wert and Allen; Green Springs, in Seneca and Sandusky; Leosland, in Clermont and Warren; Milava, in Carroll and Stark; New Holland, in Delaware and Fayette; Plymouth, in Richland and Huron; Pitts City, in Marion and Union; Scott in Van Wert and Paulding; and Van Wertville, in Mahoning and Columbiana.

LOST AND TREED BY WOLVES. THIS MAN'S FATE IN MICHIGAN

Houghton, Mich., Nov. 18.—Lost and treed by a pack of wolves, E. C. Goodrich, inspector of the Michigan Telephone Company at Houghton, remained two days and nights with nothing to eat near King Lake, below Nestoria. He had been hunting with other copper country men, and killed a deer at a considerable distance from camp. He started back in the wrong direction and was soon hopelessly lost. At dark he heard some wolves and took to a tree. At dawn Goodrich, the wolves having gone, climbed down nearly frozen, wandered that day and part of the night and finally struck the railroad and got his bearings.

DRANK

Wood Alcohol Mixed With Sugar and Two Died.

Sharon, Pa., Nov. 18.—Two men are dead and five are in a critical condition here as the result of drinking wood alcohol. The dead are: Michael Stein and Jos. Janos. All are laborers. They found a five gallon can of wood alcohol on a druggist's garbage pile, mixed some of the stuff with sugar and water and the alcohol did the rest.

NOTE

Pinned to a Hat Marked the Spot
Where the Mother and Babe
Were Drowned.

Leavenworth, Kan., November 18.—In the Missouri River, near here a woman's straw hat with the following note has been found:

"To Whoever Finds This:—Please take clothes to Journal office and they will send it to 145 North Twenty-sixth street, Lincoln, Neb. This is to mark the place where I, Mrs. Al Sechrist, and baby have gone to rest in the deep Missouri."

The woman's family live in Lincoln. The hat was identified by a restaurant keeper in this city, who says that its owner ate several meals at his place last week. It is believed that Mrs. Sechrist is the wife of Frank Sechrist, who was killed by Dr. Zorn at Kansas City three months ago in a dispute over a board bill.

Mrs. Sechrist was supposed to be on her way to Kansas City to testify against Zorn, whose case was set for yesterday.

DALZELL IN IT

Washington, Nov. 18.—Representative Dalzell of Pennsylvania, vigorously denies the report that he has withdrawn from the contest for the speakership of the house.

"I am still in the fight," he says, "and am in it to win. I think my prospects are better than they have been. I take no stock in all this figuring of the strength of Mr. Cannon. Such calculations are not to be relied on at this stage of the game."

BLEW THE SAFE

Huntington, Ind., Nov. 18.—The safe in the Huntington brewery was blown some time last night. Nitroglycerine was used and in order to deaden the sound, bales of hops were piled around the safe. The burglars secured $125 and a diamond stud valued at $125. They made their escape and the burglary was not discovered until the force came to work.

PRESIDENT

FAILS TO GET SIGHT OF BEAR DOWN SOUTH.

Today the Last Day of the Hunt,
Which Has Not Been a Shining Success.

Smelter, Mo., Nov. 18.—The bears in the swamp country around the President's camp on the Little Sunflower seem to have effected a successful operation to prevent the President from having a single shot at one of them on this expedition. The only shot the President fired Monday fled in a westerly direction at the first cry

CLEW

To His Identity Seen in Paper.

Man Had Been Sandbag- ged and Robbed.

GROETZINGER FINALLY "CAME TO" IN NEW YORK.

SAW HIS PICTURE IN A PAPER.

Sent for His Wife and Returned Home
With Her—A $50 Bill in His Vest Pocket.

Pittsburg, Pa., Nov. 18.—Emil P. Groetzinger, the Bellevue business man who was so strangely missing, is back at his home. Mrs. Groetzinger narrated the experiences as her husband told them to her.

On October 23 Groetzinger left to go to the home of his sister in Avalon. He had reached the corner of Jackson and Home avenues, Bellevue, when he heard whisperings back of him. He never thought to look back and walked along. Soon he heard a step close behind him and only remembers that he was hit on the head. From that moment everything was a blank until sitting last week in the Cooper Institute, Broadway, New York, he picked up a Pittsburg paper and saw there a picture which struck him as being familiar and yet somewhat strange until he read what was underneath it and learned that the picture was his own. Then he woke up. He found that his hat, money and watch were missing, but a search of his vest pocket revealed one silver dollar and 47 cents. Groetzinger had a habit of carrying the greater part of his money concealed, and remembering this he found that he still had a $50 bill sewed to his undershirt.

He remained the balance of the day in New York, bought a hat, and the next day started for Washington. From there he took a trolley car to Alexandria, Va., from which point he telegraphed his wife. When Mrs. Groetzinger reached him in Alexandria they went to Washington and consulted a specialist, Dr. Rex, who declared that her husband had sustained a temporary concussion of the brain through being sandbagged.

In New York they hired a private detective to unfathom the mysteries of the case. He thought he could possibly get back the stolen watch, but was doubtful about doing much else. Mrs. Groetzinger proceeded her husband home several days ago and was ready to welcome him when he arrived Sunday. Asked about a neighborhood rumor that he had resigned his former position and that they were going to Philadelphia to live, she laughed and said she did not know.

EATEN

Alive by Hogs Was the Horrible Fate of a Man Who Was Fattening the Brutes.

Omaha, Neb., Nov. 18.—Relatives in Lincoln have just received particulars of the shocking death in Portland, Ore., of John Gilbert, a prominent stockman of that city, who formerly lived in Lincoln. The man was literally eaten alive by infuriated hogs.

Gilbert had gone to the pens to feed a drove of hogs that he was fattening for market and found two of them engaged in a fierce fight. He picked up a club and endeavored to separate the brutes, when one of them turned upon him. Plunging its long tusks into his leg it tore out a great chunk of flesh. Weakened by loss of blood and suffering excruciating pain, Gilbert tried to escape from the brute, but in vain. He contrived to reach the fence and to get part way over it when, becoming too weak to go farther, he fell back into the pen.

The whole drove of hogs then set upon him and ate him alive. When his body was discovered later it was mutilated beyond recognition. Mr. Gilbert leaves one son in Portland, Mrs. Werner of Beatrice, Neb., is his divorced wife.

Bossism Must Cease.

The Newark Advocate makes an excellent plea for harmony in the party and for a leader who will lead. It finds occasion, however, to condemn Johnson and to extol McLean. This is no time for recrimination. The party was defeated in Ohio and it would have been defeated no matter who was at the helm. Nothing will be gained by abusing Tom Johnson or making odious comparisons. The milk is spilled, but the cow hasn't gone dry. The Bee has counseled wise leadership these many years. It has counseled harmony and fidelity to Democratic principles. And above all it has counseled the elimination of bossism. There must be a head to every organization, but the leader of the Democratic party should be the servant and not the master of the party. No one should dominate or control a Democratic convention. The voice of the party should find full and free expression and the leaders should be guided by the sentiment of those who choose them. Johnson and McLean should cut no more figure in the party than any other two men. To achieve success we must dispense with bossism and several other isms.—Toledo Bee.

What we seriously object to in the above is the Bee's interpretation wherein it alleges that the Advocate finds occasion to "condemn Johnson and extol McLean." It was quite remote from the Advocate's purpose to extol John R. McLean, either directly or indirectly and nothing in its article can properly be so construed. A man can be defended against unjust assault without being extolled. Tom L. Johnson, in assuming party leadership went out of his way to denounce McLean and make opposition to him and his paper a prominent feature of his campaign, and the Advocate condemned that sort of leadership, contending that a party leader should be a harmonizer, zealous for party unity, and not an open instigator of discord.

It is proper to remark in this connection, though not by way of extolling him, that Mr. McLean did not display this type of leadership when he was the party candidate for governor.

What we especially desire to be understood is that the Bee misrepresents the case if it classes the Advocate as a McLean champion. True, this paper has never joined in any of the crusades against John A. McLean or in any way aided the Republicans in picturing him as a bogey man. On the contrary it has uniformly counseled against such action as being inconsiderate and unwise. But being a McLean champion is quite a different thing from defending him against unjust aspersion.

The Bee expresses the Advocate's sentiments exactly when it states that "No man should dominate or control a Democratic convention." That utterance condemns Tom L. Johnson quite as explicitly and as strongly as anything in the Advocate's article on which the Bee makes the above comment.

We fully endorse the Bee's sentiment, too, that for the Democratic party to succeed it "must dispense with bossism and several other sins."

Now the Ship Subsidy Steal Is To Be Pushed.

A Washington correspondent reports that Congressman Grosvenor's early appearance in Washington is due in part to his desire to begin in robust season to push the ship subsidy bill. He also reports that Mr. Grosvenor has received assurances from Speaker Henderson that the latter will not seek to prevent consideration of the bill as he did last session.

This is interesting. The speaker opposed consideration last session, but will not oppose it during the coming session. Why?

Because there was an election at hand last session, and if the subsidy bill should be passed by the house some statesmen might be elected to stay at home.

There will not be another congressional election until 1904. The coast is clear. Statesmen can now vote for this infamous grab with comparative safety or they think so.

It would not be so infamous if the question had been involved in the recent campaign, but it was not. The statesmen who favor the grab were very careful to keep it out. Republican platforms did not favor subsidies except possibly in a few eastern districts where there are ship yards.

This trick of keeping questions out of campaigns and then settling them in congress in favor of private interests and against the people is an old and very contemptible one that Republican politicians have always practiced. There is too much reason to fear that it will be successful in this instance.

Republican statesmen can find plenty of time to vote public money into private pockets but no time to reduce tariff taxes which are used to filch money from the masses of consumers to put into other private pockets.

FROM PARIS TO PEKING.

Through Train Service Discussed by Railway Men.

United States Consul Haynes, at Rouen, has advised the state department at Washington of a recent meeting in Paris of the directors and representatives of French, Belgian, Dutch, German, Austrian and English railways to make arrangements for a through train service from Paris to Peking. Going by way of St. Petersburg and Siberia, the trip can be made in eighteen or nineteen days, the sea route by the Suez canal or the Atlantic and Vancouver requiring from ten to eleven days longer. As soon as time table connections can be arranged and cities selected for the sale of tickets it is said the transatlantic companies can state before boats leave New York whether or not connection will be made with through trains to the Orient. A similar arrangement will be made for the daily service between Southampton and Paris.

Consul Haynes also reports the projected combination with the trans-American railroads and transpacific lines, enabling the sale at New York of round trip tickets from that point to Peking, with the privilege of going by the Pacific and returning by the transiberian route or vice versa.

Carnegie's Title To Nobility.

'Andrew Carnegie has been telling stories at Greenock, Scotland, about his forefathers of whom he is very proud. "We were great radicals," he says, "not to say incipient republicans in Dunfermline in the early days. I remember the cavalry parading the streets of Dunfermline to quell riots. An old lady recently sent me a copy of a hand bill in which an appeal is made for 300 pounds to defend my uncle from the charge of conspiracy in holding a Chartist meeting which was dispersed by the Sheriff. I have had it framed as my best title to nobility, that one of our family was in jail for defending the right of public meeting."

Roosevelt's Attack on Presidents.

(Pittsburgh Post.)

A Missouri newspaper, the Columbia Herald, has been reading up the books written by Theodore Roosevelt, of which there are costly editions to be issued that will return to the President heaps of money. The figures are placed very high, and it is said, may equal the returns Mrs. Stowe received from "Uncle Tom's Cabin." The books are readable and refreshing and strenuous, but of no extraordinary merit, as historical studies or otherwise. Their great advertisement is that their author is President of the United States, and has hundreds of thousands of places at his disposal. That will make any book "go." The Missouri editor in examining Mr. Roosevelt's books recalls that a year ago Republican organs were filled with violent criticisms of men who dared to speak slightly of a President, and criticisms of a President were likened to anarchy. Indeed, the assassination of William McKinley was attributed to the newspapers and speakers who criticized Mr. McKinley and his policies, and these same Republican organs demanded a Federal law limiting free speech and free press. These facts are brought to mind for the purpose of emphasizing some of the extracts the Missouri editor has made from Roosevelt's life of Thomas H. Benton, showing with what a free and strenuous hand and pen he attacked his predecessors in the great office he now holds as the outcome of the Buffalo assassination. We quote:

Speaking of Thomas Jefferson, Author Roosevelt said: "The scholarly, timid and shifty doctrine. . . . Was the father of nullification and therefore of secession. . . . Cheap pseudo-classicism that he borrowed from the French revolutionists. . . . Constitutionally unable to put a proper value on truthfulness."

Of Martin Van Buren, Author Roosevelt said: "Faithfully served the mammon of unrighteousness. . . . Succeeded because of and not in spite of his moral shortcomings."

This is what Author Roosevelt wrote concerning Franklin Pierce: "A small politician, of low capacity and mean surrounding, proud to act as the servile tool of men worse than himself."

When Author Roosevelt wrote of James K. Polk this is what he said: "Excepting Tyler, the very smallest of the small presidents between Jackson and Lincoln."

"Of President Monroe, Author Roosevelt wrote as follows: "Colorless, high-bred gentleman of no especial ability, but well fitted to act as presidential figurehead."

But Author Roosevelt's opinion of John Tyler is especially interesting. He said: "He has been called a mediocre man; but this is unwarranted flattery. He was a politician of monumental littleness. . . . His chief mental and moral attributes were peevishness, fretful obstinacy, inconstancy, incapacity to make up his mind, together with inordinate vanity."

Talk of this kind, made by other gentlemen about our Presidents has been denounced by Mr. Roosevelt as "anarchy" and "abuse of the freedom of the press." We recall a number of remarks to the effect that such "attacks" on a President were responsible for "anarchy" and that those who made them should be held responsible along with the assassin for any crime committed because of their "influence upon weak and irresponsible minds." Is it patriotism to defame a President after death and anarchy to criticize him while living?

WASHINGTON THE FAVORITE

Veterans Want All Future G. A. R. Encampments Held There.

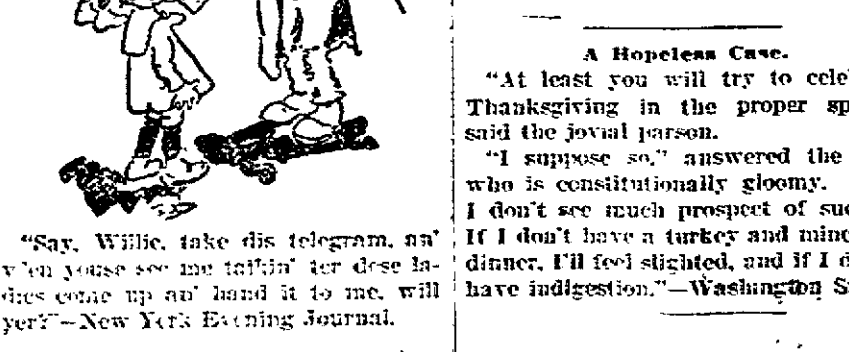

The great success which attended the recent national encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic at Washington has resulted in creating a strong sentiment among the veterans in favor of making Washington the permanent encampment for the organization. This sentiment is taking definite shape, as already Representative Charles H. Grosvenor has been requested, says the Washington Star, to introduce a bill at the coming session of congress which will have as its purpose the holding annually of the encampments of the G. A. R. in Washington.

Samuel F. McCloud of Long Branch City, N. J., and J. C. Carr of Cincinnati are leading spirits in the movement. Both are prominent members of the G. A. R. and both attended the late encampment at Washington. Mr. Carr, who was in Washington recently, has placed the matter in the hands of Representative Grosvenor. He agrees with Mr. McCloud that "Washington is the proper place to hold the encampment every year on account of the many battlefields near it, which are a great attraction to the old soldiers, especially Gettysburg."

The promoters of this proposition believe that as an inducement for all the old soldiers to attend future encampments to be held in Washington the government should furnish transportation to all honorably discharged soldiers and sailors to and from that city and quarters and rations for them while there, and General Grosvenor has been requested to incorporate such provisions in the proposed bill.

"That," said Mr. Carr, "is as little as the government can do for the disappearing army of veterans who placed their lives upon the altar of their country when the life of the nation was threatened. Besides the battlefields in this vicinity Washington is always a place of great and ever changing interest to the veterans, who would come here in even greater numbers if Uncle Sam will show his generosity and appreciation by unloosing his purse strings."

A Hopeless Case.
"At least you will try to celebrate Thanksgiving in the proper spirit," said the jovial person.
"I suppose so," answered the man who is constitutionally gloomy. "But I don't see much prospect of success. I don't have a turkey and mince pie dinner. I'll feel slighted, and if I do I'll have indigestion."—Washington Star.

STARTLING, BUT TRUE.

"If every one knew what a grand medicine Dr. King's New Life Pills is," writes D. H. Turner, Dempseytown, Pa., "you'd sell all you have in a day. Two weeks' use has made a new man of me." Infallible for constipation, stomach and liver troubles. 25c at Hall's drug store.

To avoid conscription a young German at Hadersleben tried to simulate gout by allowing some bees to sting his foot. When he presented himself with his swollen limb at the mustering station he was enrolled as a mounted artilleryman.

While 3,500 coal cutting machines are used in United States mines there are less than 400 such machines in British collieries.

Medicine as a profession for women is constantly growing in popularity in London. Women now holding medical degrees in Great Britain number more than 500.

THE RAILWAYS

MANY ROADS TO INCREASE THE WAGES OF EMPLOYEES.

Monday Was Day of Wrecks in Texas
All Due to Heavy Rains—Local and General News.

New York, Nov. 18.—Following the lead of the Pennsylvania and New York Central railroads practically every big railroad in the country will raise the wages of its employees. In round figures 650,000 men will get an annual increase aggregating $17,000,000. Nineteen railroads are included in those which will grant the increase. The movement for increased wages is the most stupendous in the history of the country. The total payrolls of the railroads today is nearly $750,000,000. It is expected that the public will soon be forced to pay part of this increase through higher freight rates.

Among the railroads affected are the Pennsylvania, New York Central, West Shore, Missouri Pacific, Texas Pacific, Denver and Rio Grande, Rio Grande and Western, Lake Shore, Delaware, Lackawanna and Western, Southern Railway, Union Pacific, Southern Railway, Nickel Plate, Wheeling and Lake Erie, Pittsburgh and Lake Erie, Washington, St. Louis and Southwestern, Erie, Philadelphia and Reading.

Wrecks in Texas.
Fort Worth, Texas, Nov. 18.—Monday was a day of wrecks on Texas roads. A west bound Texas Pacific train went through a bridge near Elmo badly injuring five persons.

A Texas Central freight train went into a ditch near Ennis with a train load of cotton and wheat, resulting in great damage.

A Missouri, Kansas and Texas freight train broke in two on a bridge near Caney, I. T., and several cars rolled into a ravine.

A Frisco engine and seven cars went into a ditch near Frisco City. The accidents were all due to weakened tracks caused by heavy rains.

B. & O. Wages.
The Columbus Dispatch says that it is stated on good authority that the B. & O. is preparing to follow the lead of other roads in raising wages of the B. & O. employees inasmuch as Pennsylvania owns a controlling interest in the B. & O. A statement announcing an increase in wages is expected within a few days.

Thousands of Women Suffer and Many Die, Owing to False Treatment.

PAINE'S Celery Compound

Never Fails to Banish Disease and Establish Lasting Health.

Thousands of women are kept in sickness for months and years owing to false treatment and the use of worthless medicines, and we are inclined to believe that Milton thought of this class of almost dying women when he said:—
"The angelic guards ascended, mute and sad."

The common sense treatment of today for weak, run down and suffering women is Paine's Celery Compound. This marvelous medicine is spoken of in every part of the civilized world, and men and women of all classes derive new life from its use. M. Elizabeth Messick, Marietta, Ohio, writes about her rescue from a low condition of physical weakness; she says:

"Eight years ago I was most successfully operated on for an ovarian tumor, weighing twenty-five pounds. After a operation tonics and foods were used in vain to bring back strength. In some way Paine's Celery Compound came to the rescue and it really seemed that four doses produced a change. I was then sixteen years old, and had three years more of school work. Your compound is the only thing I have to thank for strength during the last three years at school. Now, I am eight months of each year in the South in some missionary work among the freedmen. This last spring I would have had to give up, but one bottle of Paine's Celery Compound made me over again. My sister cured her exema with Paine's Celery Compound. We recommend it to all."

Union President Has Made A Good Witness

COMMISSION TO TAKE UP THE NON-UNION MEN'S CASE

HOLDS MITCHELL RESPONSIBLE

For Disorders During Strike—That is the Stand That Mr. MacVeagh Has Taken.

Scranton, Pa., Nov. 18.—The plea of the non-union miners in the anthracite region, as outlined in the statement presented to the anthracite strike commission by the attorneys for the non-union workers last night is said this morning to reflect clearly the attitude of the operators toward the union workers in their contention before the commission. The commission will take the plea of the non-union men under advisement. Briefly put the non-union men demand a twenty per cent increase but ask that no limit of hours be placed on their labor. The non-union men protest against the recognition of the United Mine Workers and recite the list of wrongs they have suffered at the hands of the union men.

The cross-examination of President Mitchell by Wayne MacVeagh, which was continued again this morning has been along the lines of the demands of non-union men. Mitchell has been severely questioned as to the moral principle of limiting a man's working time; the wrongs endured by non-union men who remained at work and the principles and powers of the miners' union.

MacVeagh has sought to show that the union is to a more or less greater degree irresponsible.

Wayne MacVeagh took up the question of violence and Mitchell said that before the proceedings went further he wanted to say that he did not condone any acts of violence during the strike. MacVeagh held that Mitchell was morally responsible for disorder because of the influence, which he charged, he failed to exert. Mitchell said in answer that he was always on the side of law and order and that he knew that acts of violence hurt his cause.

"Don't you know that violence deterred men from going to work and prevented the mines from being operated?"

"Violence may have prevented some men from going to work, but I want to say it had no effect on the result of the strike. The men would have remained out all winter," was Mitchell's reply.

MacVeagh questioned the miners here on the line of the restriction in labor and Mitchell replied that before the hearing was over, he would show that much of the restriction in labor was traceable to the coal operators and again in the restriction of the coal output.

"Don't you know that your limit of right in preventing men from working is persuasion?"

"I have always said that anything unlawful was wrong."

MacVeagh said it appeared that the miners held that "Thou must not kill but needs not strive to keep alive." Continuing, MacVeagh read from a statement that a man might cease from work but in no way, must he interfere with others who wished to do so. Mitchell evidently misunderstood the statement for in answer he made mention of anarchy and MacVeagh said: "This statement is evidently one from a well disguised anarchist, Archbishop Ireland."

MacVeagh questioned Mitchell about the decisions of the courts which were adverse to the miners and asked if the growing displeasure and disrespect toward the judiciary was not a step toward anarchy. Mitchell said that the decision of Judge Jackson had been manifestly unfair and he could not help the feeling in that regard but he did deny there was any disrespect toward the judiciary. "The trades unionists have no apologies to offer to this country. Our men belong to the militia and all national unions believe in anything that is lawful," was Mitchell's answer to MacVeagh's final question.

MR. DALY

BECAME A BENEDICT 'WAY LAST MARCH.

But He's Said Nothing About It—Wife the Daughter of a Wealthy Chicago Man.

The many friends of Mr. E. A. Daly, who has been located in Newark for the past few months, as traveling solicitor for the Central Union Telephone company, will be both surprised and pleased to learn of the denouement, in a pretty romance in which he has figured since last March. Mr. Daly announced to his associates in the Central Union offices in the Hibbert & Schaus building on Monday that he had been married since last March, and up to the present the marriage had been kept a profound secret. This announcement followed the news that Mr. Daly had been transferred to Columbus, where he will make his future home.

The announcement came as a great surprise to Mr. Daly's co-workers and will be equally so to his friends, who have always thought him to be a single man, although his quiet, gentlemanly demeanor would have indicated neither.

The young man's bride was Miss Verona Delaney, one of the favorites in Chicago's most exclusive social set, and the daughter of one of her wealthiest citizens, the young woman's father being senior member of the firm of Delaney & Murphy, distillers and wholesale liquor dealers.

The reasons for keeping secret the wedding which took place last March in Chicago, were that the young people thought it for the best not to inform the parents of either, until in their opinion the time was ripe.

Mrs. Daly lived at home with her parents, while her husband made frequent trips to Chicago from Newark to see his bride. She will join him in Columbus next or the week after, and they will live in that city, where the best wishes of friends in Newark will always abide with them.

The groom is a brother of T. J. Daly, chief clerk to Superintendent F. C. Batchelder.

MRS. PRINDLE

After an Eight Day Campaign Here Leaves for Columbus on Wednesday.

Mrs. A. L. Prindle, known as "Mother" Prindle, Tuesday closed an 8-day campaign in Newark in the interest of rescue work, especially for erring girls, by addressing an interesting and helpful meeting at the B. & O. shops at noon, and spending the afternoon visiting the unfortunates, doing practical work along lines laid down by her.

Large meetings were held Sunday, addressed by Mrs. Prindle, in the morning at the First M. E. church and in the evening at the Fifth street Baptist church. At both she received much encouragement, a number coming to her and stating their intention of living better lives.

Eight meetings have been held in eight days, including Monday night's meeting in Granville.

Mrs. Prindle will go to Columbus on Wednesday morning and from there to Cleveland. In leaving she desires to state that she likes Newark and its people and cannot but express her heartfelt thanks for the cordial co-operation of the W. C. T. U., pastors and laymen and all others with whom she was associated.

SAVED BY AN ARTIFICE

I was the only American of my time at the University of Bonn who joined the duelling corps. In the corps was young Baron Steiger, who was considered the best swordsman at the university.

Toward the end of the term I had the good luck to be pitted against Baron Steiger when he had been drinking and got the better of him. This gave me some renown and made Steiger my bitter enemy.

I did not touch a sword again during my stay at the university, and after taking my degree I went to Vienna to see a little of life at that capital. I had letters to some of the best people there, and my associates were almost exclusively Austrian or German. One evening after attending the opera with a party of ladies and gentlemen I invited them to sup with me at a cafe. While we were there he should come in but Baron Steiger. He passed close to me, not speaking to me, but glaring at me, and as he walked behind my chair he purposely ran against it. I was at the moment raising a glass of wine to my lips, and a part of the wine was spilled on my shirt front. I was angry and, acting on a foolish but natural impulse, threw what remained in the glass in his face.

The moment I had done so I realized that I had likely signed my own death warrant. Steiger would undoubtedly challenge me, and as I had not touched a sword in two years and he had become famous in its use, as well as a merciless opponent, I must either show the white feather and be disgraced among my Vienna friends or die.

Steiger apologized for touching my chair, declaring that it was unintentional, and, raising his hat, politely passed on. Not one of my friends but understood what would follow, and the party broke up immediately. I went to my apartments with a young Dr. Koch, with whom I was very intimate.

The challenge came before we separated, and I confess I was thrown into a serious mental condition. Since leaving the university Steiger had fought a dozen or more duels and had never spared his man. Dr. Koch told me to think no more about the matter or I would unite myself to take advantage of what slight chance there was for me; that he had saved a friend of his once under similar circumstances and he would try his plan with me. I placed my case in his hands, turned in and after an hour or so fell asleep.

The next evening after dark Dr. Koch came to me and told me that he had arranged everything and if I would keep my head all would go well with me. I as the challenged party had the right to choose the weapons and the time and place of the meeting. Acting for me, Dr. Koch had chosen swords in a dark room. The duel was to take place immediately in a room of a third party. Without giving me time to dwell on these horrible conditions Dr. Koch hurried me to the meeting place, but before entering the rooms in question he took me to another where a gentleman was waiting, to whom I was introduced—"Dr. Siefert, the most noted oculist in Europe." The two doctors at once began to paint my eyes with a camel's hair brush that had been dipped in some liquid. As soon as they had finished a bandage was clapped over my eyes and kept there for some twenty minutes, when it was taken off, and we went immediately to rooms in the same building where the meeting was to take place. A few moments later Steiger and I were thrust into the dark room, and the door was closed and locked.

Now, it is impossible to exclude perfectly either light or heat from any apartment. One might as well attempt to form a perfect vacuum. Scientifically speaking there is no such thing as a perfect absence of everything from any given space. The treatment of the physicians had enabled me to take advantage of what light there was in the room, nearly all of which came through an imperfectly fitted door, under which there was a strip unprotected. Be this as it may, I could distinguish the principal objects in the room, including my enemy. I could not make out his expression, but his figure was quite perceptible, especially his face and hands, which were lighter than the rest. He remained perfectly quiet for awhile, when I moved, and hearing the creaking of my boots, he came toward me. I glided away, this time without making any sound, and in another moment gave him a cut on the hand which forced him to drop his sword. Before he could recover it I pricked him from the other side, which drew him from where the sword had fallen, and then I took it up myself.

"Baron," I said, "you are at my mercy. I have your sword."

"Finish the murder. That's what I. It certainly is not dueling."

"I have no use for your life. I give it to you. Hello!"

The door was opened, and the party in the adjoining room entered. I had given Steiger an ugly cut on the hand and a slight wound in the fleshy part of his back. These the doctors dressed. Steiger insisted on a renewal of the combat under circumstances that would enable him to take his revenge, but my seconds declared that I would not be permitted to fight longer except in the dark room, whereupon Steiger sulkily declared himself satisfied, and the party dispersed.

As soon as I was alone with the two doctors they charged me, both on my own account and theirs to keep their part in the matter a secret, since if it became known they would be ruined socially and professionally. I had no desire to publish it.

BOY SWINDLER

GETS LECTURE AND ALSO FULL SENTENCE.

Brennan, Who is Just 21, Goes to the Penitentiary for a Term of Ten Years.

New York, Nov. 18.—Ronald F. Brennan, the "boy real estate swindler," has been sentenced by Judge Crane in Brooklyn to 10 years—the minimum—in the penitentiary on charges of grand larceny and forgery.

In giving the 21 year old swindler a lecture before passing sentence, Judge Crane said:

"Crime is often attributable to sudden temptation, ignorance, desperate dependency or evil influence. All these should be taken into consideration by a sentencing magistrate. But in your case I find a deliberate and well-laid plan or scheme to defraud and to falsify the public records. If you were to be allowed to be at liberty, home and property would vanish by the stroke of an unknown pen, and I am unable to find the least mitigating circumstances in your favor."

District Attorney Clark said after sentence was passed, Brennan had secured at least $100,000 through his forgeries. It is believed that he has a large amount of this left in cash.

Brennan's operations are about as daring as any with which the banks and title companies have been made acquainted. From an office boy at $7 per week in two years he became the President of a busy trust company of his own, having extensive offices in Brooklyn and Manhattan and doing a large business.

Brennan's plan was to search the records of the Register's office and find a valuable piece of property on which a mortgage had been filed. He would then file a "satisfaction piece" with the Register purporting to show that the mortgage had been paid, and that the title to the property was clear. To do this it was necessary for him to forge the signature of the person who had loaned the money on the property. Then, representing himself as the agent of the man in whose name the title stood, he would borrow as much as possible on the property. In one instance he secured $35,000 from a Brooklyn bank on a piece of property worth $100,000 and to which he had no title and did not even know the real owner.

Demas Bricker.

Mr. Demas Bricker, one of the most prominent and best known citizens of Knox county, died at his home in Centerville, Saturday night. Mr. Bricker was an uncle of Carey Bricker, the druggist, and of Mrs. Frank Mercer, both of this city. Mr. Bricker had not been in the best of health for some time, but it was not until noon on Saturday that he was taken down seriously. He failed rapidly from that hour on until his death.

Mr. Bricker was born in Morgan township March 7, 1828, and followed the occupation of farming for many years, being a resident of Hilliard township, with his residence at Rich Hill, most of his life. He retired from active business in 1875. Some three or four years ago he removed to Centerville, where he resided since.

He was married to Miss Cinderella Miller April 1, 1857, who survives him, together with a daughter, Mrs. Howard L. Conard of Chicago, and a son, Lorin Bricker, who resides in California. The funeral took place Tuesday morning at 10:30 o'clock.

NEWARK-ZANESVILLE ROAD

Ordinance Referred to Committee at Zanesville--New Loops to be Put in at Newark Soon-- Interurban Service.

At a special meeting of the Zanesville City Council Monday night, an ordinance was read granting to Geo. K. Browning a franchise to erect and operate a street railway and lay a third rail along the streets of Zanesville for the transportation of passengers, packages, express matter, United States mail, baggage and freight, to construct necessary switches, side tracks, turnouts, stations, and all other necessary adjuncts to the successful operation of said road.

This is the "interurban ordinance", which when passed, will enable the new Newark and Zanesville road to complete their line from this city to the Muskingum county capital. Options on rights of way along the two proposed routes from Newark to Zanesville have been secured, and the "holding up" of this ordinance by the Zanesville council has been the only cause of delay in pushing the work to completion. As soon as this ordinance passes giving the road the necessary privileges within the corporate limits of Zanesville, the road will be pushed rapidly along.

The ordinance Monday night was referred to a committee consisting of the standing railroad committee of the council, and five members appointed by the President Monday night.

Although separate in management the proposed road to Zanesville will be owned and operated by the same people who are at the head of the Buckeye Lake road.

Locally, the Buckeye Lake company which also owns the Newark and Granville lines, will make many improvements in the near future. The most important will be the establishment of a loop at the end of the Columbus line so that there will be a loop at both ends. The cars will run down to the Auditorium as at present, then along the North Side and stop in front of the union depot of the Newark and Granville and Buckeye Lake roads.

EFFECT OF MIND OVER MATTER

Upheld by Federal Supreme Court--Justice Peckham Delivers the Opinion of the Court--Magnetic Healing School Case.

Washington, Nov. 18.—Justice Peckham of the Supreme court of the United States, has delivered the opinion of that Court in the case of the American School of Magnetic Healing vs. J. M. McAnulty, the latter being Postmaster at Nevada, Mo., where the school is located. The proceedings grew out of a fraud order issued by the Postoffice Department prohibiting the Postmaster from delivering mail to the school. The original bill asked for an injunction to prohibit the Postmaster from obeying this order. In the United States Circuit Court of Missouri the department's order was sustained on a demurrer. The opinion reversed that judgment, but in delivering it Justice Peckham said that there was no intention of passing upon the various constitutional objections set out in the bill, the intention of the Court being to "simply hold that the admitted facts show no violation of the statutes cited, but an erroneous order given by the Postmaster General to the defendant which the Courts have power to grant relief against."

The action of the Court was accompanied with instructions to the lower Court to "overrule the defendant's demurrer to the amended bill, with leave to answer and to grant a temporary injunction as applied for by complainants. The opinion added:

"In overruling the demurrer we do not mean to predicate the defendant from showing on the trial if he can that the business of complainant as in fact conducted amounts to a violation of the statutes"

Justices White and McKenna did not concur in the opinion.

In reviewing the case Justice Peckham quoted the plea of the Magnetic School that one human mind may control another in treating disease, and said:

"One person may believe it of greater efficacy than another, but surely it cannot be said that it is fraud for one person to contend that the mind has an effect upon the body and its physical condition greater than even a vast majority of intelligent people might be willing to admit or believe. Even intelligent people may and do differ among themselves as to the extent of this mental effect. Because the complainants might or did claim to be able to effect cures by reason of working upon and affecting the mental powers of the individual and directing them toward the accomplishment of a cure of the disease under which he might be suffering, who can say that it is a fraud or false pretense or promise within the meaning of the statute? How can any one lay down the limit and say beyond that there are fraud and false pretenses?"

The claim of the ability to cure may be vastly greater than most men would be ready to admit, and yet those who might deny the existence or virtue of the remedy would only differ in opinion from those who assert it. There is no exact standard of absolute truth by which to prove the assertion false and a fraud."

Later Justice Peckham said: "Suppose a person should assert that by the use of electricity alone he could treat diseases as efficaciously as the same heretofore have been treated by 'regular' physicians. Would these statutes justify the Postmaster General upon evidence satisfactory to him to adjudge such claim to be without foundation, and then pronounce the person so claiming to be guilty of procuring by false or fraudulent pretenses the money of people sending him money through mails and then to prohibit the delivery of any letters to him."

The opinion says that many people do not believe in vaccination and in homeopathy, and asks whether on this account vaccination is to be prohibited and whether homeopathic physicians are subject to be proceeded against by the Postmaster General.

Justice Peckham concludes that the statutes under which the Postmaster General proceeded in this case were "not intended to cover any case of what the Postmaster General might think to be false opinions, but only cases of actual fraud in fact, in regard to which opinion forms no basis."

THE OLD RELIABLE

A REGULAR GOLD MINE.

Kansas City, Mo., Nov. 18.—The business done by Prof. Weltmer at Nevada, Mo., before the government interfered amounted to $400,000 a year and caused the Nevada postoffice to be raised from the fourth to the first class. All of the letters received contained money. Judge Phillips in the United States District Court in Kansas City, made the point that so much mail required all the attention of the postmen and left no time for suggestion and concentration of thought on the sufferings of the correspondents. In April, 1901, Weltmer and his partner, Joseph H. Kelly, were fined $1,500 for using the mails fraudulently.

AMUSEMENTS.

Some few years ago Williams & Walker were connected with a small minstrel company traveling in the west. The daily street parade at 11:45 found them in the band; Walker playing the snare drum and Williams the base horn. No one to see them thus would imagine that they were the principal comedians of the organization and doing the principal ends on the "first part" in the evening performance. Since that time rapid strides have been made in their profession by the two clever comedians. When playing vaudeville houses their salary, which only a few years ago was as low as $20 for the team, is now $500 per week. Williams and Walker are the authors and composers of many popular songs, which always meet with ready sale. Their success in this direction is possibly because they are constantly introducing something new; often taking off a song in the zenith of its popularity and inserting a new one instead. "In Dahomey" will be seen at the Auditorium tomorrow night, November 19.

NEXT SATURDAY NIGHT.

Mr. Theodore Kremer, one of our most popular authors, has furnished theatre-goers throughout the country with many a pleasant evening with the numerous successful plays that he has written. From what can be learned, Mr. Kremer has eclipsed all previous efforts in his latest dramatic composition, "A Desperate Chance," which will be seen at the Auditorium Saturday night, Nov. 22.

In "A Desperate Chance," the author has taken for his theme an entirely new and novel idea, showing the great hypnotic power the famous Biddle brothers had over the gentler sex. The play abounds with intense situations, holding the interest of its audience from the beginning to the end. Mr. Kremer has given his personal attention to the selection of the cast and has therefore furnished us with an exceptionally strong acting company, embracing some of the best actors of the present day.

COMING SOON.

In her production of "When Knighthood Was in Flower" Effie Ellsler wears three court costumes, a riding habit and a page's costume. The court costumes are of considerable interest to students as being reproductions of gowns worn by the original Mary Tudor, heroine of the play. They are splendid affairs and will indicate to women how beautifully the styles of nearly 400 years ago can be adapted to modern use. Coming to the Auditorium soon.

SEARCHING

FOR BIG DUDE HUGGER AT RA-CINE, WIS.

People are Patrolling the Streets Trying to Catch Man Who Assaults Women.

Racine, Wis., Nov. 18.—Armed citizens in squads of from two to half a dozen are patrolling the streets nightly in the search for a "hugger," who like his Boston prototype, assaults unprotected women and girls. Within the past week five women are known to have been confronted by him, and two of them sustained serious injuries at his hands. The male relatives and friends of those who have been attacked or insulted are up in arms and an active search for the criminal is in progress.

The list of victims is as follows:
Mary Sorensen, aged 16; Athledin
Birdsall, aged 10; Josephine Petersen, Lettie Brown, of Milwaukee; unknown woman.

Miss Sorensen is suffering with a swollen ear and neck as a result of her experience. She started from her home on Cliff avenue to visit a friend.
Not far from her home she noticed a man following her, and he seized her and held her tight attempting to place his hand on her mouth and stop her from screaming. In her struggle to free herself from his grasp her ear was injured and neck bruised. The assailant became frightened and ran, but before going he warned the girl to keep still or he would kill her.

Little Athledin Birdsall, the pretty and winsome ten year old daughter of R. R. Birdsall, a prominent contractor, left her home to go to a store to buy some milk. As she was about to enter the store a strange man lifted her in his arms and started away with her. The child struggled and cried, attracting the attention of an unknown woman, who approached and demanded to know what he was doing with the child. He pretended to be the little one's father, but the girl insisted that he was not and the woman carried for help. The man dropped the girl and disappeared in the darkness.

In each case the description of the man given is the same. He is nearly six feet tall, well proportioned, brownish mustache, wore a brown overcoat and a Fedora hat. He was unusually well dressed, and one of the victims described him as a "dude." He is believed to be a degenerate, and it is feared the assaults will culminate in a murder.

Bishop Miller.

Would you like to feel Young Again?

Many old people are lame,
nearly all are weak.
Worst of all, is that feeling of languor, of inability to act,
of weariness at trifling exertion.
Nothing will make the old young again, but Vinol will prevent 99 out of 100 old people from feeling so old.

There is no humbug about it.
We found out about Vinol, and tried it every way before we decided to put it on the market and guarantee it. Now we believe that almost any tired, discouraged old person who will take a bottle of Vinol and use it as directed will feel better right away.
It will increase their strength, relieve their lameness and

CRUISE

Of the Celtic to the Mediterranean—A Beautiful Souvenir Volume is Published.

Mr. Lewis P. Schaus who was on the cruise on the Celtic around the Mediterranean in 1902 has just received a handsome volume containing 450 pages, entitled "The Cruise of the Celtic Around the Mediterranean, 1902," published by Rev. R. H. McCrady and Rev. H. M. Tyndall, both of whom were members of the party making the tour. In the party were 820 people, divided as follows: 377 men, 438 women and 5 children. These 820 passengers were from 31 states of the American Union and from its capital;
from the provinces of Quebec, Ontario, Manitoba, Prince Edward's Island and from England and Ireland.

The book is a beautiful volume, containing a full account of the cruise, and giving a detailed description of each place visited. It also contains a full list of the passengers, with the photograph of many of them, and also contains a full account of the organization of the Steamship Celtic Masonic Association, which was organized on board ship in mid ocean on February 13, 1902, and of which Thomas J.
Shryock, the Grand Master of Masons of Maryland, is the president, and William S. Brown of Pittsburgh, is the secretary and Daniel H. Ayres of Troy, N. Y., is treasurer. The organization is composed of 107 members, hailing from 26 grand jurisdictions. At the time the organization was effected a certificate of membership, printed on board ship on ship paper, was presented to each member, which is reproduced in the book, and of which the following is a copy:

Mid Ocean, Feb. 3, 1902.

Mrs. Louis Flory Brought Down the Game While Her Husband
"Hunted."—Notes.

Granville, Nov. 18.—Ever since the hunting season opened Mr. Louis Flory, who resides a short distance east of the village, has been putting in his spare time in hunting, in an effort to bag a few of the juicy quail, but without success. Several mornings ago he started out over his farm and during his absence one of the game birds alighted in his yard, near the back porch. Mrs. Flory chanced to see it and getting the gun, had the good fortune to kill it. She dressed the bird and when Lou returned home for dinner she placed it before him nicely cooked, with the remark that she did not have to go out of the yard to kill quail. The joke is on Lou.

Mrs. T. J. Hughes of Columbus, who has been visiting friends in the village for several days, has returned home, after having had a delightful visit.

Miss Eva Blanchard the efficient and accommodating operator at the telehome with a severe attack of quinsy.

James Harris, a prominent business man of Fostoria, was in the village for a short time Monday.

The male members of the Presbyterian church will give their chicken pie social on Wednesday evening.

Mr. Richard Price of the Welsh Hills undertaker, was in Newark today on business.

There will be a meeting of Center

for the purpose of conferring the East Master's degree on two candidates.

THIS IS TRUE.

The wise outlay of money is in a permanent home. There the family comes together daily after the stress and storm of life as to a refuge. The possession of a home, however humble, gives one a sense of permanency, of vested rights; awakens public spirit and patriotism and arouses emulation.
It is a foundation on which to build, a point from which to advance. Every flower enhances the value of the home and endears it to the heart and memory, hallowed by a tender association, endured by recollection.

REMAINS

Of Christopher Columbus Deposited at Seville, Spain, With Due Ceremony Monday.

Seville, Spain, Nov. 18.—The ceremony of depositing the ashes of Christopher Columbus in a special mausoleum was carried out in the cathedral
here Monday with befitting solemnity.
The coffin containing the ashes of the illustrious navigator was borne on the shoulders of a party of naval seamen and behind it walked in procession the archbishop of Seville, the cathedral chapter, the minister of marine and a number of dignitaries.

After mass had been performed the captain general of Cadiz and the archbishop took the coffin into their charge and it was deposited in the mausoleum where it will remain permanently.

EARTHQUAKES CAUSE FRIGHT

Salt Lake City, Utah, Nov. 18.—Reports from Southern Utah say that there were nine earthquake shocks at St. George, yesterday afternoon shaking down chimneys and in some cases pictures hanging on the walls were turned around with their faces to the wall. Every ceiling came down in a new school house and the panic was so great that the teachers used physical force to prevent the children from trampling each other to death. At Santa Clara a chimney's standing and one house is in ruins.

During the shocks clouds of dust arose and people rushed into the streets screaming. The tower of the Mormon temple at St. George oscillated ten inches.

TELEPHONE

Plant Will be Completed by the Middle of December—A Fine Office Equipment.

Manager Charles E. Hollander of the Independent Telephone company told the Advocate Tuesday morning that Crumb & Company have almost finished the stringing of new wires and cables on the new pole lines that have been set over the city and that the new switchboard for the new telephone plant has been shipped from the factory. The company is now fitting up its new offices in the several rooms on the first floor above the Welant bakery.

Mr. Hollander says the new switchboard will be installed and new telephones placed in every subscriber's house on or before December 15. Every phone now in use will be discarded. Everything will be new and the best that money can buy. The company is spending nearly $50,000 to improve the Newark plant.

Mr. Hollander was in Granville on Monday arranging to make some improvements there. The switchboard capacity was enlarged and new instruments will be installed where they are needed.

The new exchange at Utica with numerous farmers' lines running into the country is completed and the new exchanges at Johnstown and Croton are in operation. An exchange is about to be built at Pataskala.

All of these exchanges with more than 30 other points in the county, and nearly every town in Ohio, are connected with the Newark independent Telephone plant.

Mr. Hollander says that his company has orders from many new subscribers for phones and that the instruments will be put in just as soon as the apparatus gets here.

FEELING

Against Wilcox Has Subsidized—Second Trial for Murder About to be Commenced.

Elizabeth City, N. C., Nov. 18.—Jas. Wilcox, once tried and convicted of the murder of Nellie Cropsey, but granted a new trial by the Supreme court of North Carolina, was again arraigned in court here yesterday. He entered the court room with a smile upon his face and looking none the worse for his long confinement in prison. His attorney said Wilcox was not ready for trial and he would present affidavits in support of a motion for a removal of the case. State Solicitor Ward announced that he had counter affidavits to submit.

The question whether Wilcox will again be tried here at this or a later session of the court or moved to another county will be argued today before Judge Moore. No demonstration is expected as the feeling here against Wilcox has subsided.

Mrs. DOLBY'S TALKS

Thinks the Deacon's Too Vivid For a Church Member

[Copyright, 1902, by C. B. Lewis.]

SEVERAL little things had happened during the day to cause Deacon Dolby to look forward to a scene after the supper dishes had been cleared away, and when the hour finally arrived he was as ready as he could be to take what was in store for him. He sat down in his rocking chair in the sitting room, pulled off his shoes and had been reading testimonials about a new patent windmill for ten minutes when Mrs. Dolby softly began:

"Samuel Dolby, just after breakfast this morning you went to the barn. Something was the matter with the stable door. When it would not open, you banged and kicked and muttered, and after five minutes you picked up a big stone and smashed at the door with all your might. At the same time you said something. I was too far off, and you saw me and didn't repeat it, but I want you to tell me right here and now what it was. Certain rumors have reached my ears, and I want to know if there is any truth in them. Did you say 'pshaw,' 'sugar' or 'or'—"

The deacon had reached testimonial No. 4, and he became so deeply interested that he forgot to answer the question. Had it been otherwise he might have been compelled to admit that his exclamation had neither "pshaw" nor "sugar" in it. Mrs. Dolby sat looking at a three-quarter view of him for two or three minutes and then continued:

"At the dinner table today I asked you to pass the fried eggs. The plate was hot, and you burned your fingers and dropped it with a crash. It was bad enough to have the plate broken and the contents spilled all over the tablecloth, but that was nothing to what you said. As the plate fell you yelled. As I didn't say anything at the time you probably thought I didn't pay attention, but I want you to know that I did. Samuel Dolby, you are a man fifty-nine years old, a deacon of the church and supposed to be a living example before the world, and yet when you burned your fingers you yelled out 'Thunderation!' Don't deny it, sir. I not only heard it, but I wrote it down on the pantry door as soon as I got up. It will remain there as long as we live in this house, and I shall never see it without having cold chills go over me. What have you got to say for yourself?"

"He had nothing whatever to say, but something like a smile appeared at the corners of his mouth. He was thinking what he would have said had he stubbed his toe instead of burning his fingers. He could have defended the word 'thunderation' as perfectly proper under all occasions of sudden excitement, but before he had made up his mind to do so Mrs. Dolby went on:

"At 3 o'clock this afternoon I asked you to go up into the garret and get down my quilt frames while I went over to see Mrs. Green about fall pickles. Just as I returned you fell down stairs with such a clatter that for a moment I thought the house had been struck by a cyclone. I was so excited and I came so near fainting away that I don't remember what you said, but I know you yelled out at least four times. Samuel, I want you to tell me exactly what you said. It was something dreadful, but perhaps under the circumstances I can excuse it, and you can make a fresh start. I know that a fall downstairs is a sudden thing, and it is liable to throw even a deacon off his balance. Did one of your expressions refer to the bad place, Samuel?"

All four of his yells were directly connected with the locality mentioned, as he distinctly remembered, but the deacon didn't propose to enter into any arguments or discussions. He had said what he had said, and if Mrs. Dolby had any doubts about it then all the better for him, and he had made a safe escape of it. He tried his best to become deeply interested in testimonial No. 6, which stated that the "None Such windmill" only needed the breath of a sleeping babe to set it in motion, and after heaving a few sighs over the general situation Mrs. Dolby brought forward the last offense:

"When I was ready to set about getting supper, I asked you to bring me in a pail of fresh water from the well. You went out with the pail, and I suddenly heard some one about out. I went to the door and found you lying on your back on the ground. You had struck your toe against the soap kettle and fallen down. I didn't say anything, Samuel—not a word. I don't think you even saw me. I am not asking what you said when you fell down, because I think it was, 'Oh, my!' But what I want explained is what you said later on, when you found the pump stuck fast. When you had worked away at the handle and the water wouldn't come, you jumped up and down and kicked the pump and shouted: 'It!—It!—It!—It!' three different times. I was having a chill, and my fingers were in my ears, and so I didn't catch the words, but I must know. You must confess to me and trust me to forgive you if I can. What does a man say when he grabs a pump handle and jumps up and down and looks red in the face? If you don't speak right up and tell me, I shall think the very worst."

The deacon laid down the circular as if he intended to make a full breast of the affair and depend upon Mrs. Dolby's wifely heart to forgive, but after a moment's thought he changed his mind and let his eyes fall upon the last testimonial. It was only ten lines long, and he read it over three times while she waited for his answer amid deep silence. By and by he yawned and stretched and got up on his feet, and, going over to the coal stove, he shut the drafts and carefully observed:

"If you are going to make soft soap tomorrow, I guess we'd better get to bed a little early tonight."

BENEDICITE

From "Snow Bound"

By John Greenleaf Whittier

PROFESSOR GEORGE R. CARPENTER of Columbia university says of Whittier in Warner's "Library of the World's Best Literature." "In the treatment in verse of themes close to the hearts of the people Whittier has not been equaled among us. As long as we exist, whose unshod feet have trodden the lanes and byways, as long as there be those that turn back the wheel of memory to the days of the pastures the woods and the hills with a lingering touch of genuine sentiment for the curls of our first roses cheeked sweethearts, his verse will serve to awaken recollections that are of the very essence of poetry."

GOD'S love and peace be with thee, where So'er this soft autumnal air Lifts the dark tresses of thy hair.

Whether through city casements comes Its kiss to thee, in crowded rooms, Or, out among the woodland blooms,

It freshens o'er thy thoughtful face, Imparting, in its glad embrace, Beauty to beauty, grace to grace!

Fair Nature's book together read, The old wood-paths that knew our tread, The maple shadows overhead,—

The hills we climbed, the river seen By gleams along its deep ravine, All keep thy memory fresh and green.

Where'er I look, where'er I stray, Thy thought goes with me on my way, And hence the prayer I breathe today:

O'er lapse of time and change of scene, The weary waste which lies between, Thyself and me, my heart I lean

Thou lack'st not Friendship's spell-word, nor The half-unconscious power to draw All hearts to thine by Love's sweet law.

With these good gifts of God is cast Thy lot, and many a charm thou hast To hold the blessed angels fast.

If, then, a fervid wish for thee The gracious heavens will heed from me, What should, dear heart, its burden be?

The sighing of a shaken reed,— What can I more than meekly plead The greatness of our common need?

God's love—unchanging, pure, and true,— The Paradise white-shining through His peace,—the fall of Hermon's dew!

With such a prayer, on this sweet day, As thou mayst hear and I may say, I greet thee, dearest, far away!

TO MARK INGALLS' GRAVE.

A Red Bowlder Was Requested by the Great Kansas.

The grave of the late John J. Ingalls at Mount Vernon cemetery will be marked by a native bowlder deposited in Kansas soil in the glacial period, says a dispatch from Atchison, Kan., to the St. Louis Globe-Democrat. This will be done in obedience to a letter written in the senate chamber at Washington Dec. 10, 1890, to Mrs. Ingalls in Atchison. The letter follows:

"The cold wave has passed off, and the morning is like April. The world is so lovely at its best. This life is so delightful that I dread the thought of leaving it. I have seen and experienced so little of what may be seen and known that it seems like closing a volume of which I have only glanced at the title page.

"What an uncivil host Life is to invite us to an entertainment which we are compelled to attend whether we like it or not and then to unceremoniously take us by the arm and bow us out into the night, stormy and dismal, to go stumbling about without so much as a lantern to show us the way to another town.

"Our ground in the cemetery should have a 'monument.' I hate these obelisks, urns and stone cottages and should prefer a great natural rock—one of the red bowlders known as the 'lost rocks' of the prairie, porphyry from the north, brought down in glacial times—with a small surface smoothed down, just large enough to make a tablet in which should be inscribed the bronze letters of our name, 'Ingalls,' and nothing else."

A stone such as described is now being sought.

MEXICO'S NEXT PRESIDENT.

Striking Personality of Senator Limantour, Minister of Finance.

Unless there is a change in present plans the Hon. Jose Ives Limantour, minister of finance, will be the next president of the republic, says a writer in the National Magazine for November. It is openly stated in official circles that General Bernardo Reyes, secretary of war, has withdrawn his candidacy, if such it might be called, in favor of Senator Limantour. Since Diaz's gradual self-effacement began Limantour has undoubtedly been the brains of the republic, and where two years ago the army was probably to a man with General Reyes it is now with Limantour despite the fact that he is not a soldier.

While in the City of Mexico recently I had the honor and pleasure of an interview with the minister of finance and secured from him an authorized statement regarding many public questions. I found him to be a man of great magnetic power, short of stature, small of frame and very slender. The secretary speaks seven different languages fluently. In conversation about the United States he is likely to make you feel ashamed of your lack of intimate knowledge which he possesses of the affairs of your own country. Talk about Mexico, and he expects you to be as conversant with the affairs of his country as he is with those of your own.

ARMY'S NEW MUSKET.

It Has Greater Velocity and Penetration Than Other Weapons.

General William Crozier, chief of the bureau of ordnance at Washington, in his annual report to the secretary of war says the improved musket has been completed and tried with very satisfactory results, the various changes not only improving the weapon, but cheapening and accelerating the production. The rod bayonet is a feature of the new rifle. Its advantage is said to lie in the fact that it lightens the weight of the gun and dispenses with the bayonet and bayonet scabbard now in use and in the place of which trenching tools may be carried by the soldier.

The new piece weighs but a little less than nine and a half pounds, considerably less than the German and the Mauser, yet has greater velocity and greater penetration. It is noted that opinions differ as to the value of the rod bayonet. The construction of 5,000 of the new muskets has been authorized.

A Record Trip From Manila.

A record round trip to Manila, calling at Guam on the outward passage, has recently been made by the trans-Pacific mail ship, the San Francisco Chronicle. When the big troop ship entered the Golden Gate, she had been steaming exactly fifty-four days, having left San Francisco Sept. 1. For detained her off that port for a day, but in spite of this detention the time to Manila by way of Guam was only twenty-two days and eleven hours. Leaving Manila Oct. 2, there was a detention in quarantine at Maricao for five days. The trip home was made in twenty-five days, via Nagasaki, seven days. The best previous round trip over the same route was made by the Grant, which occupied fifty-seven days.

A CANINE BURGLAR

(Original.)

Andrew MacAllister, who lived in his handsome place on the bank of Lake Michigan north of Chicago, came home late one night after being detained in the city on business. He was somewhat astonished to find the front door standing ajar, and, passing through the hall to the dining room, what was his surprise to find everything turned topsy-turvy and the butler bound and gagged. Releasing him, MacAllister darted upstairs, and, discovering no evidence of the family having been disturbed, he went below again and listened to the butler's account of the robbery. The man had been forced at the point of a revolver to open the silver safe, and its contents had been rifled.

"Who's dog is that moaning in the yard?" asked MacAllister, and without waiting for an answer he went out into the grounds. There at a side gate was a dog scratching to get out. At once occurred to MacAllister that the beast had come with the burglars and in their haste to depart they had shut off his exit. Perhaps if he were permitted to go he would follow them. At any rate, the experiment was worth trying. MacAllister went to the stable and got out a saddle horse, armed himself with a revolver and then released the dog, which ran off toward the city.

MacAllister mounted and followed. The dog soon settled into a steady trot down a street that eventually led him to the north end of Lincoln park. Getting through the park appeared more puzzling to him than following a straight street, but at the south end he struck an avenue and after that seemed to know his route perfectly. Coming to the street running next parallel with the river, he turned to the right and after traversing a few blocks struck a region given over almost exclusively to manufacturing.

Meanwhile MacAllister had picked up a mounted policeman in the extreme northern part of the city, to whom as they rode along he explained what he was about. The cop was rather skeptical as to the outcome of the adventure till the dog entered a tenement house which had for some time been held in suspicion. Throwing themselves off their horses as quickly as it could be done, they followed the dog into the building, but they were too late. Their guide had disappeared. Mounting a rickety staircase with as noiseless a tread as possible, they searched every landing. On coming to the top story and seeing nothing of their guide they concluded that they had had their pains for nothing and were about to give up the chase when they heard the sounds of a dog barking as if in great delight. It occurred to MacAllister that the dog had found its friends and was rejoicing at the meeting.

"In that room," he said, "I shall find my silver."

"Stop here," said the cop, "while I go for help."

"Help? What help do you want? Aren't two armed men? While you are away they might take it into their heads to move on."

MacAllister knocked. There was a shuffling about inside, and after much delay the door was opened. Facing three revolvers stood a mite of a girl. Within was a woman with a baby in her arms. The dog the men had followed stood in the middle of the floor looking at them.

The story told by the woman was that she had been up with her baby, who was ill, and on hearing the knock had delayed in order to huddle on some clothes. As to the dog, he was a part of the family. When told of his having doubtless been in the company of burglars, all the information she could give on this subject was that he had been off occasionally with a man who had recently rented a room on the opposite side of the hall.

Turning their attention to the door opposite, they knocked, but, receiving no response, broke it open. Striking a match, they made a search, but found nothing and concluded that the plunder had not yet been brought in. The look to the door had been only injured and that not so badly but they could close it as before. Having done so, they took position in the room of the woman opposite and waited.

Just before dawn there was a step in the hall below, and some one came stealthily up the staircase, paused at the door opposite, took out a key, unlocked the door and entered. MacAllister was about to move against him when the cop stopped him.

"Perhaps there are more below waiting to see if the coast is clear."

They waited awhile, but no one else came. MacAllister made another move, but was again held back.

"He may not have the swag with him, and we'd have a poor case against him. Let the dog go."

Opening the door, they put the dog in the hall, and he was soon scratching at the door opposite. On being admitted the words could be plainly heard:

"Hello, Zip. I thought you'd been left behind."

"That's enough," said the cop, and they proceeded to make the arrest, which was effected without resistance. The silver was not in the room, and without the evidence of the dog there would have been little chance of a conviction. They, however, made the case so strong that the man confessed under promise of a light sentence and restored the plunder.

MacAllister paid the owners of the dog handsomely for him and put them on the list of those whom he befriended. Zip is now the guardian of the house he was once implicated in robbing and at the slightest sound in the yard barks fiercely.

THE WORLD OF MILLINERY.

French Combinations of Color—Fur Hats.

The favorite color in Paris is the new cerise in a rather pale shade than of yore. This is mixed with the reddish pinks, which form a beautiful study in color. However, such a shade is not always becoming, and for more general wear there are delightful green and blue mixtures, with dashes of yellow, in beaver made up into large toques or small hats, the only decoration being a glass rosette or some silk tassels.

Smart toques, too, are made of cloth to match frocks, the brim lined with some dark colored velvet. Nearly all women are wise to keep rolls of dark velvet near the face. It is infinitely more becoming in the gray autumn days, and nothing is softer than velvet. Hats of beaver, threaded through with glass ribbon, are extremely popular.

Fur hats will be more worn this winter than ever. The principal skins used are chinchilla, mink and squirrel. A pretty chinchilla hat trimmed with two white ostrich plumes is shown in the sketch. JUDIC CHOLLET.

FUR GARMENTS.

They Are Made Up in Very Striking Fashions.

Fur garments are very sumptuous this year, or, rather, sumptuous looking, for the most inexpensive furs are now being made into ideally lovely garments. Women have hitherto looked with contempt upon marmot and squirrel, but these now figure in chic little boleros. Squirrel has to be treated with care and is greatly improved by the addition of some ermine edging and some good lace gupure.

There is a perfect craze for velvet, both plain and spotted, for day and evening wear.

The rough fur coats are mostly three-quarter length for motoring and other purposes. The more sumptuous forms of carriage wraps are full length, which is a wise proceeding, as they can then be used for evening coats.

EVENING GOWN OF BLACK NET.

There is a fancy for brocade linings, but most people remain faithful to the pure white and pearl gray satins.

Furriers are adopting the full picturesque sleeves. Some fall over the wrists into a neat cuff, while the long carriage coats show fascinating ruffles of lace inside the bell sleeves.

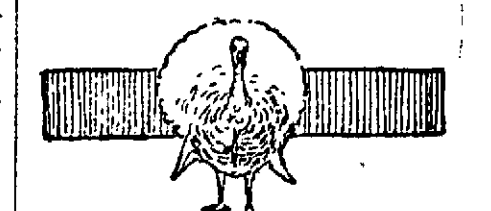

The pretty decolette gown shown is of spotted black net over white silk. The skirt is particularly smart. JUDIC CHOLLET.

Literature as a Trade.

To write successfully means to serve a long and hard apprenticeship. It means to do many things badly in order to learn to do a few things well; to read many authors, and good ones; to live with words till one knows their value, and it means, too, that one must know something about the reality of life. In short, writing is a trade, just like bookbinding or typesetting. It is different, of course; it has a higher side, we believe, but to think only of the higher side and ignore the trade part of it is to prepare oneself for a great disappointment. Doubtless the novice should not expect to earn pin money by a time down her day dreams when successful authors are obliged to slog daytime and nighttime in order to learn the mechanics of the art. Woman's Home Companion

THE TURKEY'S LAST STAND

WHEN the stuffing's in the turkey and the turkey's in the plate, When big voids are in the innards of the watching ones that wait, When the delicate aroma of the sage is in the air, And the gravy in the sauce dish soaks the chunks of gizzard there, Oh, it's thrilling to see father as he whets And then feels around the gobbler in a timid sort of style.

When he jabs the fork in deeply and then draws a long, full breath And proceeds as if the matter were a case of life or death, When the turkey's neck curls backward, so the bird will slip and sway, And the sweat stands out on father as he cuts and jabs away, Oh, there's something that in some way makes it hard to be satiate, With the stuffing in the turkey and the turkey on the plate!

Oh, the brown and crispy drumsticks point up boldly in the air, And the turkey flops round this way and as suddenly flips there, Till the celery's knocked over and the tablecloth is stained, And the look on father's face is that of one extremely pained!

Mother swiftly moves the gravy, loudly crying, 'Mercy sakes!' And there's something fierce and deadly in each slash that father makes, When the turkey, on a sudden, as if re-endowed with life, Makes a dash and then a slide and, behold! it's escaping, he throws all restraint away And goes like a bold knight errant, fearless, eager, to the fray! Ah, hush! the waiting table there are sounds that breed despair; Father's caught the greasy turkey and they're fighting it out there!—Chicago Record-Herald.

CITY COUNCIL

HELD ITS REGULAR MEETING ON MONDAY NIGHT.

Special Elm Street Committee Reports—Paving and Curbing Contracts Let.

The City Council met in regular session Monday evening with President Rossel in the chair. The members present were: Messrs. Rossel, Banton, Jones, Fromholtz, Payne, Matticks, Linn, Davis and Spees.

The minutes of the previous regular meeting was read by Clerk Frank T. Maurath and approved.

The report of the Weighmaster for the month of October, $45.20 collected, was received and filed.

The report of the City Civil Engineer and City Solicitor in the matter of the Elm street improvement was received and filed. They reported that the lines and limits of Elm street are the same as have been for the past forty years and more, and no measurements show that any of the property owners have encroached on the street.

On motion the reading of the North Fourth street sewer ordinance was deferred until the next meeting.

RESOLUTIONS.

Mr. Fromholtz—That the bid of Brennan & Nutter for paving Elm street be accepted; adopted.

Mr. Fromholtz—That John Wagerheim be awarded the contract for curbing Elm street; adopted.

Mr. Rossel—That a 12-inch culvert be built on German street from Prospect street to a point 270 feet south

Piles

In order to prove to you that Dr. A. W. Chase's Ointment is a certain and absolute cure for any form of itching, bleeding, or protruding piles, the manufacturer guarantees a cure. You can use it and if not cured get your money back. Mr. Capper, Helton, laborer, Milwaukee City, Ind., says: "I work hard and I lift a great deal. The strain brought on an attack of piles. They itched and they protruded and bled. Nothing helped them until I used Dr. A. W. Chase's Ointment. That cured them in 50c a box and I am cured." Dr. A. W. Chase's Ointment.

Dr. A. W. Chase's Ointment.

on German street at a cost of not more than $100; adopted.

Mr. Spees—That the bid of Spehner Phillips for the construction of the North End Fire Department be rejected; adopted.

Mr. Spees—That the Building committee prepare plans and specifications for the North End Fire Department building not to cost more than $6,000; adopted.

Mr. Matticks—That the City Clerk advertise for bids for the leasing of a small tract of land owned by the city on the Ohio Canal feeder, formerly used as a city pound, near Montgomery's mill; adopted.

A STARTLING SURPRISE.

Very few could believe in looking at A. T. Hoadley, a healthy, robust blacksmith of Tilden, Ind., that for ten years he suffered such tortures from Rheumatism as few could endure and live. But a wonderful change followed his taking Electric Bitters. "Two bottles wholly cured me," he writes, "and I have not felt a twinge in over a year." They regulate the kidneys, purify the blood and cure Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Nervousness, improve digestion and give perfect health. Try them. Only 50c at Hall's drug store.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address, F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O. Sold by Druggists, 75 cents.

Hall's Family Pills are the best.

SUMMIT STATION.

Frank Evans, who has been a terrible sufferer with rheumatism for some time past, is reported as being no better at this writing. The disease has left his limbs and settled about his kidneys and in the small of his back.

Mr. G. W. Holcomb is on the sick list.

Mrs. Elias Williams and Mrs. L. F. Yearley of Pataskala were the guests of Mrs. J. D. Holcomb and family on Thursday.

Miss Libbie Williams of Vanatas, is spending a few days with her friend Miss Daisy Arkine.

Uncle Peter Geiger is no better at this writing.

Troubles.

Harduppe—I had an awful time this morning trying to get my tailor to make me a suit.

Slopay—Strange! I had trouble the other day to get him to take some money.

Harduppe—Oh, come off!

Slopay—Fast I offered him $5 and he said he wanted $50—Philly Record.

THE B. & O.

ANNUAL MEETING HELD MONDAY IN BALTIMORE.

Dividends on Both Preferred and Common Stock—Old Board of Directors Elected.

Baltimore, Nov. 18—The annual meeting of the B. & O. railroad took place yesterday, President J. F. Loree presiding. The annual report of the company for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1902, was submitted. The operations for the entire system shown by the income account for the year are:

Gross earnings, $1,178,000, increase $4,063,300.
Operating expenses, $32,883,563, increase $1,843,333.
Net earnings from operation $18,289,497, increase $2,221,297.
Other income $2,290,167, increase $1,433,218.
Deduction from income interest, rent, taxes, etc. $11,558,679; increase $1,822,681.
Net income $9,020,945; increase $1,831,960.

The report shows that dividends of four per cent have been paid upon both the preferred and the common stock.

The expenditures for construction during the year were $5,834,329.

Great progress is shown in the large works undertaken for the reduction of grades and elimination of curves.

A double track is being constructed from Rockwood to Pyle, Pa., a distance of 28 miles which when completed will give a double track line between Baltimore and Pittsburgh.

The old board of directors was re-elected.
